One solution

At Monday's meeting of Hancock County Board of Supervisors several reasons were advanced on the why and wherefore of the county's failure to receive financial assistance for its planning program.

The most understandable was the shortage of qualified planning personnel in the Agricultural and Industrial Board. At present the board has only two employees specializing in community planning and, according to E. R. Daley who represented the board at the meeting, they are supervising the planning of as many communities as they can handle right now.

Another reported stumbling block to Hancock County's request for assistance is a shortage of funds for this purpose. On this point Daley implied that Gov. Paul Johnson could make more funds available to the A & I board for this purpose.

The third factor mentioned as mitigating against assistance for the county's program is its participation in regional planning. The incipient regional planning effort, which includes Harrison and Pearl River Counties and St. Tammany Parish as well as Hancock County, was embarked at the recommendation of NASA officials and Federal Housing and Home Administration officials from Atlanta.

Although there is but one pilot model, the area around Cape Kennedy (Canaveral), and the first two year's effort and expense there produced nothing but a good map of the area, these federal officials were high in their expectations of regional planning. (Admittedly, the Atlanta based officials mainly pointed out how much money their agency could spend on such a project and how little it would cost the local area.)

Now comes the report by Daley that federal authorities in Atlanta prefer the regional planning project for Hancock County and consequently are adverse to putting up money for county planning. This is a quite different picture from the one presented by these same officials when they urged creation of a regional planning commission at a Gulfport meeting earlier this year.

Aside from any naturally antagonistic reaction we have to federal pressure for us to support regional planning versus county planning, we think that the emphasis is misplaced. Accepting for the moment that regional planning offers advantages, beyond the spending of available federal funds, it still has no such urgency for the county as does county planning. We need the latter and we need it now. For a long time we can do without regional planning.

If the preference of federal officials in the regional office of FHHA in Atlanta for regional planning over county planning is holding up assistance to Hancock County for county planning, one answer seems clear. Hancock County should pull out of the regional planning group. Then there would be no planning to prefer to county planning.

SPEAKING OF TOPLESS SWIM SUITS

It could be Mississippi From Florida

ECONOMIC BLACKMAIL BY MARTIN LUTHER KING

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, has been in the news more in the past few weeks than at any time in its 400 years of existence, not because of its historical monuments, religious shrines, beautiful beaches or quaint atmosphere but because MARTIN LUTHER KING and his cohorts of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference are trying to blackmail the people of this fine community into yielding to his demands. Knowing that St. Augustine's economy depends to a large degree on tourism and the fact that it is planning its 400th Anniversary in 1965, he chose this town not because of its discriminating practices, but because he felt that he could force the town to buckle under to his demands or suffer the consequences. But the people of this little community are a proud lot, many of the residents can trace their ancestry back to over 50 years before the Pilgrims arrived at Plymouth. During its colorful past, this historical town has been besieged by the French, English, Spanish and Indians and has lived to survive all onslaught. Now it is being attacked by an extreme element led by MARTIN LUTHER KING (Southern Christian Leadership Conference). His tactics are to create an atmosphere of lawlessness, unrest and confusion. He is using every effort to keep the visitors away from St. Augustine and thus defeat this town and require its leaders to yield to his every demand.

The frustrating thing to KING is that he has been unable to gain support from the great majority of negroes of St. Augustine—they are not interested in integrating the hotels, restaurants and beaches. The schools and all municipal facilities were voluntarily integrated without KING'S help over a year ago so he has had to import his support from other areas.

So if you are planning a trip south and are opposed to the likes of MARTIN LUTHER KING and his followers, why not stop in St. Augustine and support this little town against the economic blackmail being exerted against it.

—By David R. Tully, executive vice president, The Exchange Bank of St. Augustine, St. Augustine, Fla.

the revised application for assistance is to be processed by the AAI board staff. Daley said it would be at least two months before financial assistance would be forthcoming after the form is approved.

Both Phillips and Bisco expressed the view that if the local program had the support of NASA there would be no question as to its speedy approval.

Subsequently the board withheld payment of the $1,050 balance due Bisco's firm for preparation of proposed county sub-division regulations pending an additional public hearing on that plan.

They each scored 35 1/4 points in the sunfish class series of the Gulf Yachting Assn. regatta last weekend at Biloxi.

POLITICOS SPEAK

BY RALPH SOWELL JR.

A special session that was called with the intention of meeting for about a week found itself lengthened last week as the Senate and House reached a stalemate on two provisions of the private school bill.

Then, Governor Johnson submitted 18 other items for consideration by the legislature in the special session, and also opened the gates for local and private legislation.

The controversy at present is on a bill calling for state grant-in-aid to children preferring to attend private schools instead of court-ordered desegregated facilities. Both House and Senate agree on the rudiments of the bill, but the Senate has tacked on amendments which the House has not been able to accept.

The Senate version calls for the scholarship money to be restricted to pupils in non-church schools. The House passed the bill without any mention of church schools, and thus, they would be able to apply for the state aid.

In addition, the House refused to accept a Senate amendment which would reduce the state contributions from $185 ann. (per pupil) to $165 and call for a minimum of $35 local mandatory contribution as a matching fund for each pupil. Gov. Johnson has refused to take a stand on either of the versions. He said he would sign either bill.

Last Thursday, the governor submitted what he termed "non-controversial" bills open for consideration by the session. At least one item, though, will probably provoke debate. The subject is a truck weights proposal which would boost maximum load limits from 64,650 pounds to 73,280. The regular session passed the bill, but Johnson says the bill needs clarification.

Other proposals submitted included bills to prevent "unreasonable interference" with persons entering or leaving public buildings; authorize the State Milk Commission to spend additional funds and to make inspections formerly made by federal agencies; prohibit unauthorized use of messages sent by wire or radio; and permit the Department of Agriculture to accept private money for inspecting meat products.

Obviously absent from the list of legislation, submitted by the governor were two controversial items: The liquor bill which Gov. Johnson vetoed earlier in the year, and the question of reapportionment of the state's congressional districts. The governor said he felt that no emergency exists concerning this legislation, and therefore did not submit it for consideration.

The legislators will begin spending $90,500 after the second week of the special session. An appropriation of $50,500 was passed for an additional seven days expenses for the special term, after $40,000 was originally appropriated before last week.

New sales tax

New taxes went into effect last week, and you probably didn't notice it. But an additional half-cent was added to the sales tax, and one cent to cigarettes.

The sales tax has come a long way since 1932, when it was first introduced in Mississippi by Gov. Mike Conner when the state was nearly broke. He advocated a three per cent sales tax, which was a radical proposal for those years. After a fiery state-wide protest, a two cent sales tax was passed.

HANCOCK BANK, Executor of the Estate of Mrs. Marguerite Barbeau Kern, deceased.
7/9, 7/16, 7/23, 7/30

After the flood of comment on the topless bathing suit bit brought about by last week's column, writing anything now seems anti-climatic. Everyone apparently accepted it in the spirit in which it was intended - just for laughs - although a number of men were slightly insulted that we didn't ask their opinions so we'll hasten to explain that we only consulted those who we felt so undressed, but will gladly air views of anyone wishing to issue a statement. Andy Marchant was quite valuable on the subject, but unfortunately we were powerless and pencil-less at the time and hesitate to try and quote from memory!

We just happened to be on the spot when Betty and Clyde Lader's fifth daughter put in her appearance a little after 3:30 p.m. Friday. Maternal grandmother Rubie (Mrs. John) Bordages was there to admire the young lady who weighed over eight pounds. We're usually rather lukewarm about newborn babies but Betty, as I think she's to be christened, is so pretty that even veteran nurses commented on the fact. Showing the infant was Mrs. Ames Kergosien who is too busy nursing to find time for hootie knitting. "Becky" Lader, paternal grandmother was looking forward to seeing the new arrival. Papa Clyde tried to be disappointed as he had his heart set on a second son, but he couldn't help admiring his pretty little daughter.

Eleanor and Harold Bordages and the baby are spending a two-week vacation in Lakeshore visiting Eleanor's parents, the Harvey O'Farrells, and Rubie and John. Harold and Harvey went fishing last Thursday and came home with a boatload of trout.

'Nifty-fifty' is the term

Polly Eagen had quite an exciting entry into the fifty-fifties last Thursday, July 2. Her sister entertained at dinner and cocktails at her Crescent City home and the big birthday surprise was the arrival of her daughter and brother who flew in from St. Petersburg, Fla., for the occasion. They returned home the same night.

Hazel (Mrs. Charles) Dahlin reports "liquid sunshine" in Miami, Fla., where she attended a convention. She was taking off to the Keys for further travel.

Delores and Joseph Favre and children and Delores' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bernard, recently returned from Dallas, Texas, where they visited Joan and Alvin Bernard and daughter April Ann. Alvin is attending electronics school there.

Bobcat conversation piece

We had lots of fun snapping pictures of a stuffed bobcat Saturday (a really thrilling way to spend the Fourth) - it had been brought to Bay Ice House by game warden Pat Toomey, (and we'll have to wait and get full particulars) but Richard Burge accommodately placed the supine animal on the hood of our car for the photos. People immediately began stopping and looking at the corpse. We had quite a bit of excitement until we confessed we were only kidding and hadn't just struck the animal right in the middle of Railroad, Blatze or whatever that section of the street is called at the moment!

Hope you're feeling better wishes go to Mrs. Manuel Maurigi and Charleston Lader, both patients in Hancock General.

Catherine and Joe Glover and two children have returned to New Orleans after spending two weeks in the family beach home. Now "Tugar", his wife and five children from Hattiesburg are vacationing in the residence.

One of our best informed bird enthusiasts, Maj. John McCloskey, passed on the fact that anyone who thinks they're plagued with purple martins, while in reality most constant and squeaky-writers imaginable, are in reality most fortunate. He then proceeded to reel off statistics about how many mosquitoes they can consume in a given time. He also said that probably the best book on local birds was written by Dr. George Lowrey, head of the ornithology department at LSU and that useful facts may be obtained by writing the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission, Jackson.

Moving back to these parts

Mae (Mrs. C.R.) Beyer is jubilant. Her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Peter Benvenuti and seven children have taken possession of their new home at 116 Felicity and will remain as permanent residents. They have been living in Woodbridge, Va. Little Mary Kay Benvenuti accompanied her grandmother to the beauty shop Monday afternoon.

Zelda and Ken Waltman are vacationing in their Jeff Davis Avenue home but it won't be too long before they'll be moving into their new home on Nicholson Avenue. To paraphrase the beatniks, that's going to be "some pad".

Doris, Jack and "Pops" Seuzeneau are driving around in a new beige automobile.

Jackie and Gay Eakin are equally happy over the arrival of Douglas Buchanan, son-in-law. "Bucky" Buchanan and family - former Buchanan residents, they are now living in Carleton. "Bucky" is an employee of Westinghouse. Jackie spent her Fourth baby sitting grandchildren while Shirley and "Bucky" were getting settled in their new home.

Belle (Mrs. Clem) Penrose claims title to holder of the latest "anti-Midas" touch. She spent a most disarming Saturday, but really outdid herself when she almost ignited the kitchen while frying Monday morning bacon!

Louis Treadway was most happy to visit his family in Algiers for the first time in a number of years. He and Rae and Ray Rasmussen, with whom he makes his home in Lakeshore, really enjoyed the family reunion.

Weekend guests of Josie and Bob Haynes were Mr. and Mrs. Bob (just like the Great) Guiderleeve and two children of Baton Rouge, La.

The Kirkland Rheims of Clermont Harbor welcomed daughter Margaret Rappold of New Orleans for a three day visit.

Tops at the alleys

Local bowlers are outdoing themselves these days. Merlyn Marchal broke new records with a 722 on June 20; Mary Lou Kleinhans had a 578 series with a 236 game the preceding Sunday and Jackie Noto, representing Messager Lumber, came up with a 217 in Sun-Miss Fins competition on Thursday night.

Smeloise advises

Speaking of mosquitoes which are once again very much with us in hungry hordes, we want to again remind all housewives that although cobwebs are unsightly, they're just about the best mosquito trap available. We've - in nurturing a lovely, healthy cobweb on the carpet and it's loaded with these insects' remains.

Gripe corner

After taking another of our numerous polls we've discovered that almost everybody thinks fireworks (except where they are carefully handled and displayed as at the Legion Fair) are an abomination and we now have reports of children waving small wads with cherry bombs and the like at the ball park. No one can blame the kids, BUT if parents don't want little fingerless and headless mutations walking around they'd best forbid such practices.

Nancy Gex acquired a lovely dog from Earline and Walter Russo (and L e i g h Ann)—but Lucien was so unenthusiastic she was forced to share it with daughter Catchie who claims the rear end because it has such a pretty tail!

Irma Levens has always been good to look at, but with her new blonde hair, she's terrific!

Katherine and Morris Miller and Ruth and Jim Redding suffered quite a blow to their pocketbooks when their half of Joe Colson's building was severely damaged by fire last Wednesday night. Joe lost much stock which was stored in the upper room where the blaze is thought to have started, but the thickly carpeted office emerged unscathed. Prompt response from Waveland, Bay St. Louis, and neighboring fire departments and plenty of water pressure prevented the blaze from spreading. Louise Lynch and Paul Henley were first to spot the flames while your ever-alert reporter slept blissfully through all the excitement. SIGHTS AND SOUNDS ALONG THE WAY - Cars, cars and more cars everywhere as visitors arrived to celebrate a glorious but blessedly quiet holiday. Streams of small boys on bicycles followed by the inevitable small running dog and the incessant bang-bang-bang of fireworks irritating ear-drums all over town.

Bay and bayou

By HANK EVANS Rt. 1, Box 314C

The fishing news of the holiday weekend was, of course, the annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo which was a two-day run on Sunday. With 5,545 individual anglers participating in 496 registered boats, it was a record for the area. Flying over the Gulf on Saturday we saw an estimated 150 competing boats between Ship Island and the mainland.

RODEO WINNERS DISPLAY PRIZES

Angler, and he still holds that record for the Mississippi. The winner, Lee Ferrell of Waveland took Sunday's prize money in that class with a 4-pound 12-ounce flatfish. Ferrell wasn't lucky enough to approach his still-standing record of 7 pounds, 2 ounces set in 1963.

Billups, Jr., son-in-law of Mrs. Walter Gex, Jr., came from Hammond, La., to boat a magnificent 260-pound blue marlin, this year's largest. Though blue marlin are supposed to be a rarity hereabouts, Billups and several others are out there if you know how to hunt them.

Another, this year's rodeo was a fine success for both the anglers and the onlookers. But after all that heat and hustle, we'll sit on the bank of the bayou for a day or two, to recover with slaughter pole and worm.

All of the 4th of July fishing action was at Gulfport, Miss. Around the Bay the bridges, beaches and boats were filled with anglers. Edward Bochart and Leo Schaefer were the crab nets between the highway and railroad on Sunday. They spent several hours hauling and brought in a nice lot of blue crabs along with two well-done sunfish.

Waveland wins, Traps rap Realty
Waveland Merchants scored a 9-8 victory from the Realtors. The 13th inning was the last. The Merchants won 13-12 as a last out rally failed Friday night. Traps' realty was a 1-0 loss to second place. The Merchants' victory was a 9-8 win over the Realtors.

No one has ever seen electricity. In fact, we really don't know what it is; yet, it has revolutionized our way of living.

This mysterious force, produced by massive turbo-generators in modern steam-electric generating plants, streaks to our homes in the bat of an eyelash. We depend on it so much, we often take it for granted.

We wake up to the buzz of an electric clock-radio. We heat our coffee with an electric coffeemaker. Electricity cooks our food, heats and cools our homes, provides entertainment and preserves our food. We shave and even brush our teeth electrically.

Have you ever thought what your life would be like without it?

Don't worry. We have plenty.

Chateau holds 1st, overhauls Krankey squad

Heavy-hitting Chateau Sou retained its first place defeating Krankey 14-7, and Kiln Youth Center knocked down cellar team Bay Angels 7-5, in last Wednesday's Bay softball play.

Chateau's Strongs, Mike, 4-5, and Donald, 4-4 were top sticks while Coach Morgan 3-4 and Shelton Seuzeneau were second for honors.

Krankey picked up seven runs on 13 hits for 37 trips up to Chateau's 14 runs on 19 hits for 40 trips to the plate. Winning hurler was Donald Strong, Harold Krankey the loser.

In the second contest, Herman Necaise and Larry Ladder were both 2-4 for KYC, and C. J. Mauffrey, Randall, Berlin Ladder, Wendell Ladder and Alton Ladder were all 1-4 to account for all KYC hits. Alton Ladder was winning hurler allowing nine hits to Billy Osborn's nine.
